WELCOME TO MINNESOTA BALLROOM BLAST

Welcome, and thank you for joining us at the second annual Minnesota Ballroom Blast!

We're pleased to bring you this fun, fast-paced event for dancers and spectators alike hosted jointly by USA Dance Minnesota and the University of Minnesota Ballroom Dance Club.

Minnesota Ballroom Blast is a special event with a place for everyone from dance spectatorship enthusiasts to seasoned competitors.

For the audience, we've made sure to invite a great variety of dancers ranging from beginners to experts. But they won't be the only ones dancing! Get ready to play some games!

Dancers, our critiquing panel is here to give you the inside scoop on what the judges notice when you compete.

Our goal is for you to learn a lot and have a blast!

NEWCOMER'S GUIDE TO COMPETITIVE BALLROOM DANCING

Even though Minnesota Ballroom Blast isn't a competitive event, it is modeled after dance competitions. One of the reasons Blast is such a great event is that it gives dancers a safe space to practice in a competition-like setting and receive valuable critiques without actually being judged and ranked. Think of it as a dress rehearsal for the real deal. Many of the dancers here will be competing at Star of the North DanceSport Classic on March 1st and 2nd, 2014, at the Crowne Plaza - St. Paul Riverfront.

With that in mind, here is some basic information to get you started on understanding the world of competitive ballroom dancing.

DANCESPORT

Ballroom dancing is a competitive sport with specific rules, structures, and judging criteria. A typical ballroom competition consists of events in various dance styles, age groups, and skill levels.

DANCE STYLES

The following dance styles are featured at most USA Dance DanceSport Competitions:

AMERICAN RHYTHM

Cha Cha
Rumba
Swing
Bolero
Mambo

AMERICAN SMOOTH

Waltz
Tango
Foxtrot
Viennese Waltz

INTERNATIONAL LATIN

Samba
Cha Cha
Rumba
Paso Doble
Jive

INTERNATIONAL STANDARD

Waltz
Tango
Viennese Waltz
Foxtrot
Quickstep

International standard and American smooth share many technical principles, and many couples compete in both styles. In standard, the couple remains in closed dance position throughout each dance. In smooth, they dance in open positions (side by side, shadow, etc.) as well as in closed position.

Although international Latin and American rhythm both include cha cha and rumba, each dance style uses different technique and music tempos.

SKILL LEVELS

In ballroom parlance, the term proficiency level is used to describe the expertise with which a given couple performs—a combination of their training, competition experience, and natural talent.

NEWCOMER

Minnesota Ballroom Blast includes a newcomer level, consisting of single-dance events, which provides dancers new to competing with a level in which they can primarily dance with other newcomers.

SYLLABUS LEVELS

Bronze
Silver
Gold

In each dance style, couples generally begin at the bronze syllabus level and work their way up through silver and gold. Each syllabus level has a list of clearly defined dance steps, or figures. Couples competing in a given syllabus are not allowed to perform figures of a higher proficiency level, although couples competing in silver or gold usually include certain bronze figures in their routines.

OPEN LEVELS

Dancers typically graduate from the syllabus levels on to the open levels. At the open levels, both costume and figure restrictions are lifted, though dancers do still use syllabus figures along with original, non-syllabus choreography.

MIXED PROFICIENCY

Mixed-proficiency events give dancers a unique opportunity to compete with someone at a different level of dancing. Brand-new dancers can dance with people who have been dancing awhile, people who have been dancing for over twenty years can dance with individuals in their first year of dancing, etc. In these partnerships, only the less proficient partner is judged or, in the case of Blast, critiqued.

JUDGING

Judges are certified by various licensing agencies. They are also experienced competitors and instructors. Judging is both an objective and a subjective process. Couples are judged on their technical skill, their interpretation of each dance, and their showmanship. In addition, each adjudicator has his or her own personal standards. For this reason, several adjudicators will judge each event to ensure fairness.

Minnesota Ballroom Blast gives dancers insight into the way these individuals view ballroom dancing, a useful tool for future practice and competition.

COMPETITOR PARTICIPATION

Dancers compete in heats, which are a specific group of competitors competing in a particular event at a specified time (or times, if there will be callbacks). Typically, dancers will receive a program or heat list to let them know approximately what times they'll be expected to compete. Dancers should be prepared to compete at least half an hour before their scheduled heats in case the competition is running ahead of schedule.

When it is time for dancers to compete, they will form a line with their fellow competitors in the designated on-deck area. When their heat is called, they'll find a spot on the floor and dance until the music stops. They'll take a bow and exit the floor. If a heat has a large number of competitors, it is likely there will be a callback process in which the judges select a number of couples to return to the floor and dance again. This process will continue until there are eight or fewer couples (the ideal number is six) remaining on the floor, which will be the final round. Since Minnesota Ballroom Blast is not a competition, there will be no callbacks.

AUDIENCE PARTICIPATION

Many people attending their first ballroom event expect to find the audience sitting in serene dignity, delicately applauding at the completion of each dance. Instead, the spectators are yelling, jumping up and down, and generally carrying on the way they would at any other spectator sport.

Ballroom dancers thrive on audience appreciation. Even if you do not know the first thing about ballroom, you still have an important role to play at an event. Audience participation is not only allowed but is encouraged and welcomed.

Cheer, applaud, and call out the numbers of your favorite couples. Being an active spectator ensures that you'll have a blast! carrying on the way they would at any other spectator sport.

MASTER OF CEREMONIES

SHINYA MCHENRY

Shinya has been in the ballroom dance world for over three decades and has competed professionally in both Latin and standard. He is the owner of the brand-new studio DanceLife Ballroom and is also a well-known entertainer, MCShinya. He wishes for all of the participants to make ballroom dancing part of their life. Keep dancing! Photo of Shinya by MODIE creations.

MUSIC DIRECTOR

CHRISTOPHER KEMPAINEN

Chris is very excited to be the music director for Minnesota Ballroom Blast. Chris is an avid music lover and has an extensive music collection of over 15,000 songs, most of which are dance-related. He is currently available to produce, edit, and mix music as well as DJ for many types of events, including ballroom competitions, weddings, and other celebrations. Chris has also been a dance instructor at Dancers Studio for seven years.

CRITIQUING PROFESSIONALS

ELENA BERSTEN

At the age of ten, Elena learned rhythmic gymnastics and in 1995 became a Russian gymnastics champion. At the age of twelve, she started learning ballroom and Latin. In the summer of 1998, she and her mother (a former Russian champion) opened the dance studio 21 Century. At age sixteen, Elena went to school for choreography. In her dancing career, Elena won numerous awards for her dancing abilities and won many prestigious Russian championships and titles. At the age of eighteen, she won the Russian formation team competition.

From 2000 to 2005, Elena attended the Orel State Institute of Arts and Culture and received a special certificate as a ballroom instructor. She also attended a Russian university for choreography. From 2003 to 2006, she was invited to be a dancer for Europe's renowned Moscow's Starlight Dancers. She toured in Finland, Sweden, Monte Carlo, and Cyprus. Elena also performed with many celebrities, including Lou Bega, Patricia Kass, Boney M, Touch and Go, and many other great performers. Elena performed on some of the most prestigious stages in Moscow and St. Petersburg. In 2006, she created her own dance show, 21 Century Dance. And from 2008 to 2010, she was invited to perform with Burn the Floor as part of the main couple.

Elena is co-owner of the Trophy Mayor dancesport competition. She is a recognized official judge of Russian Federation DanceSport and is USTA/NDCA-certified as a highly qualified member adjudicator in both international and American styles. She trained many of the junior and youth champions of Russia in her ballroom and Latin club, 21 Vek in Orel, Russia. Now Elena is co-owner and director of Dance with Us America, which is considered to be one of the best ballroom and Latin dance studios in the Midwest.

JULIE JACOBSON

Julie has been teaching, competing, and coaching in the ballroom dance world for almost twenty years. She is a familiar face at competitions around the country and holds the United States Professional Nine-Dance Champion title for the year 2000 and three Ohio Star Ball Professional Nine-Dance titles. As a founding member of Beyond Ballroom Dance Company, she helped realize an artistic dream that takes ballroom dancing from the competitive arena to the theater stage. Her favorite dance partners are her wonderful husband, Ken, and adorable children, Olivia and Daniel. When she's not dancing, Julie loves cooking, drawing, yoga, and skiing.

CYNTHIA LEHEW-NEHRBASS

Cynthia holds a bachelor of science in dance performance and choreography from the University of Wisconsin - Madison and a master certificate in creative nonfiction from the Loft Literary Center. She has been performing and teaching dance for over thirty years and has danced and choreographed with various Midwest modern, jazz, ballet, musical theater, opera, liturgical, and ballroom companies and productions (including Beyond Ballroom Dance Company).

In college, Cynthia helped her husband, Jeff, in founding the first University of Wisconsin Ballroom Competition Team and teaching the university ballroom extension program. After graduating, they went on to be national award-winning professional smooth and standard competitors and founders/coordinators of Northwest Health Clubs' (now Lifetime Fitness) ballroom program. They have owned dance studios for over eighteen years (On Your Toes, The Retro Ballroom, and now Balance Pointe Studios in St. Louis Park).

Currently, Cynthia continues to train recreational and competition dancers as well as doing choreography throughout the Twin Cities. In addition to raising her two teenagers, she does special needs advocacy, is learning ASL, and is pursuing her interests in dance medicine, natural health, and dance therapy. Currently she is working toward a certification in herbalism at Normandale Community College as well as studying with the IPE Institute in Boulder, Colorado, to become certified as an eating psychology coach. Cynthia is available for coaching and choreography through Balance Pointe Studios.

LISA VOGEL

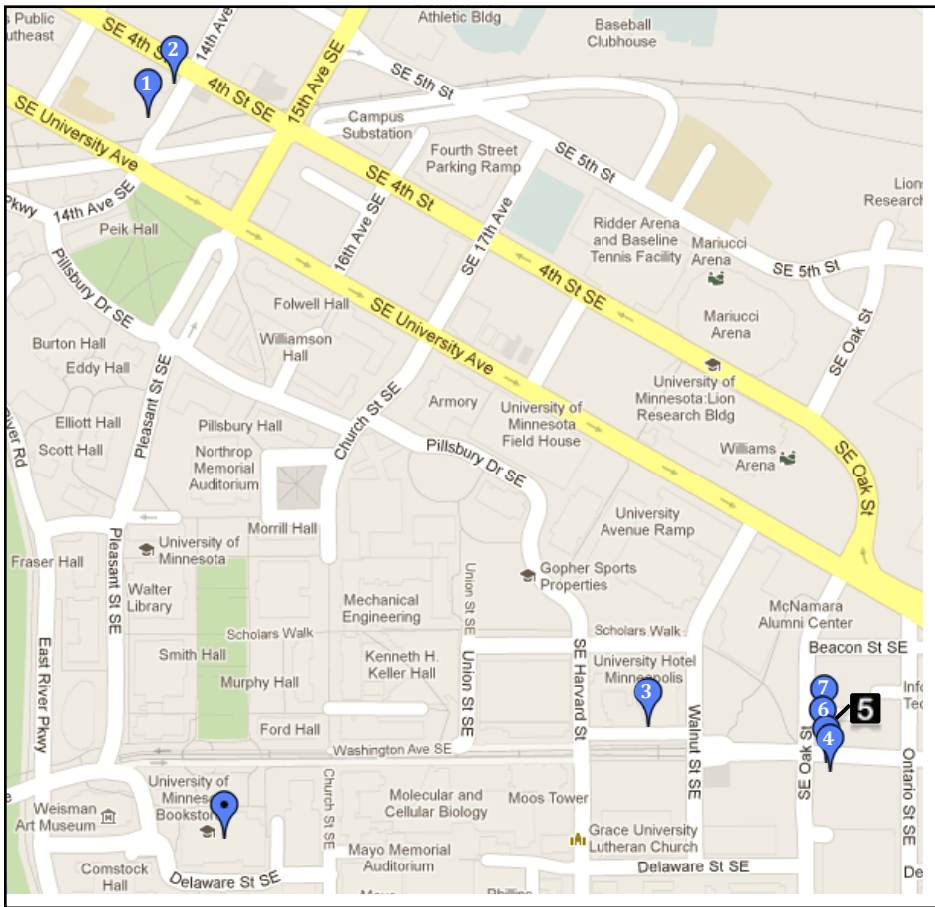

Lisa Vogel nourished her love for dance from a young age, training across a broad range of styles including ballet, modern and contemporary, and ballroom. Top competitive ballroom accolades include: 2007 United States National Rising Star Champion; 2008 Professional Open Champion of French Open, Mexico Dance Sport, and Caribbean Open; 2007 World Open Professional American Smooth Finalist and 2008 Bronze Medalist; and 2008 United States Open Professional American Smooth Finalist and Silver Medalist in 2009.

In addition to her competitive career, Lisa has toured across the United States and performed on Broadway as well as having been a featured performer in consecutive years of PBS's national television broadcast of America's Ballroom Challenge. In 2009 she was recognized with the National Dance Council of America Community Service Award for volunteer work teaching dance to underprivileged youth in Juarez, Mexico.

Lisa received her BFA in dance from Arizona State University, where she was the recipient of academic and artistic awards. Most recently, she has returned from a year abroad having graduated with an MA in contemporary dance performance from the Irish World Academy of Music and Dance in Limerick, Ireland, as a beneficiary of the Stepping Stone Scholarship.

Since returning, she has been a selected choreographer and soloist performer in the 2013 "RENOVATE, A Choreographer's Evening" as well as performing with BODYTALK in the Minnesota Fringe Festival. Lisa is excited to be back in her Minnesota home to further pursue her dance practice and is thrilled to be choreographing and performing with the Beyond Ballroom Dance Company this upcoming season.
